The Azrieli Faculty of Medicine at Bar-Ilan University: Reaching New Heights in Medicine

The Azrieli Faculty of Medicine is located in the culturally diverse Galilee in the North of Israel. Since its establishment it quickly attained leadership in medical education and in important medical research domains in Israel. The Faculty is undergoing a growth spurt as it enters its second decade. The symbiosis between the training of future doctors and advanced degree graduate students provides fertile ground for multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary collaborations leading to groundbreaking research. While cultivating local leaders, Azrieli is internationally known for its contributions to science and medicine.

The guiding principle at the Azrieli Faculty of Medicine is to combine basic with translational research – applying targeted research to specific challenges that arise in hospitals and clinics of the region, with international implications.

Application process for international students*
